

Since 1992, Heritage Camps for Adoptive Families (HCAF) has existed to support the healthy development of families formed by adoption, and to promote the successful transition of adopted children into healthy, confident, well-grounded adults who are proud of themselves, their families, and their heritage.

Camps are held each summer in Colorado, and are “family camps.” Adults attend workshops while kids (adoptees and siblings – age 3 -17) attend age appropriate programs. Relevant programming is also offered for adult adoptees, age 18 and up.

Culture

Learning and connecting through culture is an exciting and meaningful part of each of our Heritage Camps. Our cultural community members create programming and lead the campers in learning more about and exploring their cultures. Building self-esteem and a strong sense of identity is also part of our programming.

We also believe that adoption is a culture of its own. There is a very special understanding of adoption at this camp that can't be replicated anywhere else.

Community

Children and parents have a unique opportunity to share their experiences and create community with other families that were formed just like their own. Great relationships are also developed between campers and their cultural community and counselors.

Counselors

Much-loved volunteers provide guidance, friendship, and role models for the children at camp. Many counselors are adopted themselves, from the same country/culture as the campers, and/or they are young adult volunteers from the cultural community.

Connection

Networking with other adoptive and foster families, adult adoptees, and experts in the field of adoption and culture are the key components of camp. Each camp's workshops include nationally renowned speakers and experts in their field.
